AT 5:30 A.M. ON MONDAY, the big dish was raised into position atop the tower at the COMSAT Jamesburg Earth Station. The 34-ton saucer is over 90 feet in diameter and tops the pedestal at the heighth of a ten-story building. For over a week, wind readings had been taken to determine the optimum time for the lift, since any currents over four miles an hour would be too much. At dawn, the air was still and the lift went smoothly and quickly, without a hitch. When in operation the dish will be tilted at an angle and about 168,000 pounds of lead shot placed in the supporting ring will counterbalance the weight. (Photo by Ginnie Drew)

Valley pool opens on Saturday; meetings for summer swim team

Two important meetings will be held to organize the summer recreation swim team, "The Barracudas." The meeting at the Valley pool will be on Saturday, June 1 at 10 a.m. The meeting at the high school pool will be the same day at 1 p.m.

Four outstanding men have been hired to coach the team in competitive swimming. Al Nishimura has been Little All American at Occidental College and Jim Fosnot has competed for San Jose State College and University of Minnesota. Hallie Cox reached the California Junior College State Diving Finals this year and Pat McGibney dived for Carmel High, was Tri-County Champion and also dived for Foothill Jr. College.

If anyone is interested in having his child experience the thrill of competitive swimming and diving he should plan on attending one of the two meetings on Saturday.

The age groups for youngsters are: Eight years and under; 9-10 years; 11-12 years; 13-14 years; and 15-17 years.

POOLS TO OPEN

Carmel Valley pool will be open weekends starting this Saturday, June 1. Hours for recreational swimming will be from 1-4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. On Saturday, June 15, the pool will begin its summer schedule of being open every day, from 1-4 p.m.

On June 15, the high school pool will also open on a daily basis from 1-4.

Season swimming passes will be on sale at both pools from the opening day on. These run $10 for a family pass, $7.50 for an adult pass and $5 for students. At the Valley pool there is an additional surtax of 15¢ per swim to help cover the mortgage payments.

Individual swims run 35¢ for children and 65¢ for adults at the Valley pool. Charges at the high school pool are 20¢ and 50¢.

GRACE DOUGLAS

Grace Parsons Douglas, founder of the Douglas School for Girls on the campus now owned by Robert Louis Stevenson School for Boys in Pebble Beach, died Friday, May 24, in a local nursing home following a period of failing health.

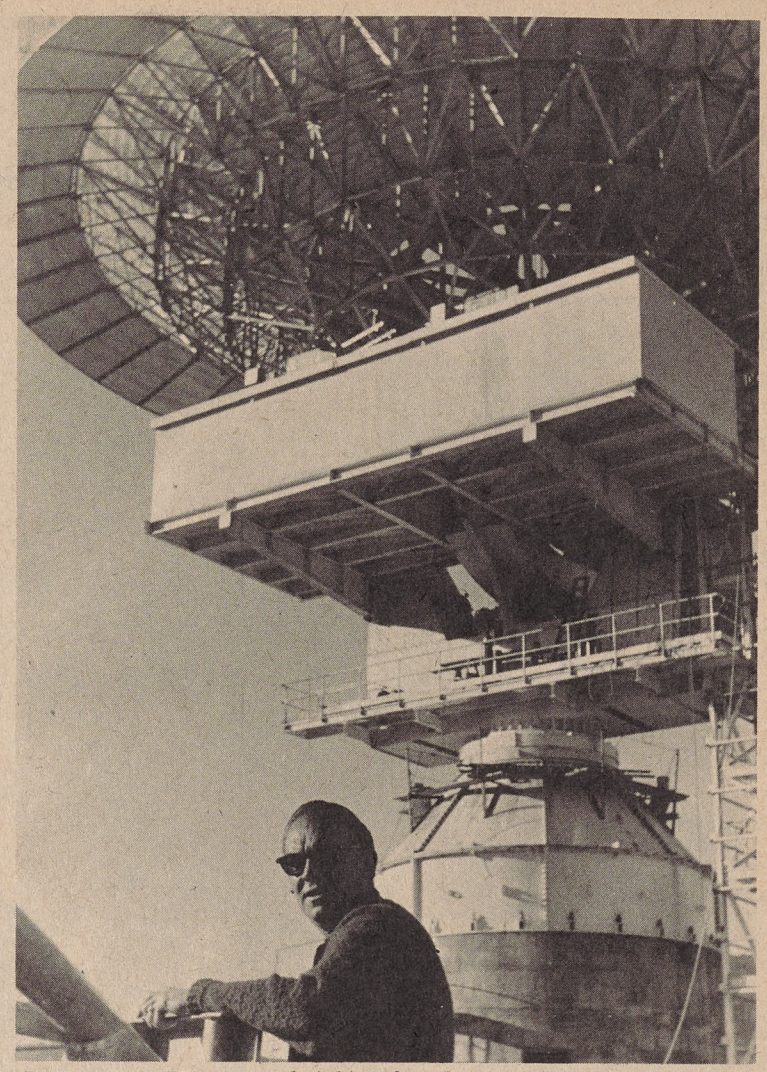
Born Oct. 25, 1880, in Cambridge, Mass., she was for many years the owner and operator of Douglas Camp in Carmel Valley, established in 1925 and now operated by her daughter, Mrs. Ernest (Marjorie) Jefferson.

She attended Latin School in Cambridge and Sargent's School of Physical Education at Harvard. In Winchester, Mass., she had been a supervisor of physical education and later moved to Hollywood where she taught physical education at Le Conte Junior High School.

In 1928 she established the Douglas School in Pebble Beach. She was the wife of the late Ernest Douglas, who died in 1957. They were married in Cambridge in 1900 and moved to California in 1906.

She leaves two daughters besides Mrs. Jefferson, Mrs. Roger S. (Barbara) Gammons of Carmel and Mrs. Curtis C. (Jean) Johnson of Orange.

Contributions in her memory are preferred to the John Tracy Clinic (a charity which she actively supported), 806 W. Adams Blvd., Los Angeles.



DON McKENZIE was up bright and early to watch the big dish go up at the Jamesburg Earth Station, at 5:30 a.m. on Monday. Don, a longtime Valley resident and owner of the Grapevine, is administrative director of the COMSAT station. The satellite communications tower now has reached the heighth of a ten story building with the placement of the high saucer. (Photo by Ginnie Drew)

Branson feels four lane Valley Road is inevitable

Supervisor Willard Branson told Carmel Valley Kiwanis last week Tuesday that, although he dislikes the thought, four-laning of Carmel Valley Road will be inevitable.

He said he hopes they can be stopped at Mid-Valley.

He announced that he has submitted his resignation as manager of the Monterey office of his insurance firm and will switch to selling in order to be able to devote more time to his supervisor responsibilities.

He said that "it is at least a 40-hour week job now."

He expressed pride that Valley ranchers had not sought special consideration under the Williamson Act, which permits agriculture land lower assessed valuation if preserved for farming for 10 years.

Support the firemen—they deserve it

It has been brought to our attention that there are persons who are questioning their regular contributions to the Carmel Valley Fire Department because of their strong feelings over recent action by one of its members, in pursuing and allegedly roughing up a young man with what many feel were vigilante tactics.

We feel it makes no difference whose story your believe or whether you condone the actions of either party, the Volunteer Fire Department certainly should not suffer because of allegedly excessive action by one of its members.

These men are responsible for the outstanding record of fire protection in our Valley, and the saving of hundreds of lives through the Volunteer First Aid unit. It is certainly cutting the nose to spite the face to protest against the entire crew.

This is the one time of year when Valley people can say THANK YOU to the Volunteers who give many hours of their time, not only in fighting fires and aiding injured or ill persons, but in training, to make them even more efficient.

Election choices

Supervisor Willard Branson has a conspicuous advantage going for him for re-election for Carmel Valley and Carmel voters Tuesday, June 4—this is his home territory. He has lived here for many years; he knows the area best, and he seems to have a genuine feeling for its needs and the wishes of its people.

Of course, these would hardly be enough qualifications by themselves to warrant support. Branson seems to have matured in his year and a half as supervisor and grown in his ability to handle the often difficult decisions which go with the job of supervisors.

His performance as a planning commissioner before being appointed supervisor to succeed Tom Hudson was undistinguished. But close observers of Branson as supervisor have been impressed with his independence, his level-headed judgement and his ability to work with other supervisors and groups.

The other contest about which we have strong feelings is for U.S. Senator. The clear choice is Sen. Tom Kuchel over Max Rafferty, the state school superintendent with whom practically all educators disagree on educational matters. At a recent publishers' gathering Rafferty's performance was that of a ham actor, a self-conscious grand-stander with naive, over-simplified answers to questions.

In contrast is Sen. Kuchel, a man of quiet, enlightened integrity. As a Senator for 15 years and Assistant Republican leader for 10 years, he has established a solid record in both national and foreign affairs.

On the Democratic ballot, the choice is for Alan Cranston. With a Northern California background, he scored an outstanding record as state controller, and has broad understanding of the problems of this part of the state and of foreign affairs as well.

Whomever your choice, be sure to vote this coming Tuesday in an election of extraordinary importance.

High School committee studies Middle School

(Reprinted from the Carmel High School newspaper, The Sandpiper)

The Student Council Committee (of Carmel High School) to study and investigate the proposed change of high school campuses has finally issued its findings, against the change, after a prolonged period of waiting.

Reporting extensively on the present condition of Middle School, the committee, which was asked for and formed by Student Body President Wade Rose, stated that it could not support the proposed move until the major recommendations listed are met.

Stressing throughout that they could not support any change until the Middle School is brought up to expected minimum standards of a high school, the committee went on the list over 20 recommendations that are considered necessary for a proper educational environment at the Middle School.

Included among the listings are items calling for the extensive construction of facilities for the use of science, crafts, P.E., publications, arts, home economics, drama, and musical education.

The report further calls for the grounds to be made more practical for high school students.

The committee, which consisted of ten members of the Student Council, studied the Middle School site for two days while touring the plant.

In a more detailed manner the report asked for the construction of a new gym, pool, football stadium, and track as basic for physical education.

In the realm of crafts it states that separate buildings for metal shop, wood shop, auto mechanics, crafts in general, and ceramics are desperately needed as well as buildings for the specific sciences.

The report recognized the cost that will be an unavoidable aspect of change if change is going to take place.

To quote the report: "If the Middle School is going to become a high school it must be a high school capable of carrying on a modern educational load and not a high school that gets along with what it has. In the Carmel School District a school that just gets along is not justified."

Concerning itself with the problems of erecting new buildings, the report calls for construction to take place during the summer over a number of years.

The building of the needed facilities during school hours, argued the committee, would so interrupt classes that it would be educationally unjustifiable. The committee feels that the noise, chaos, confusion, and mess that will be generated by construction would distract the students to a marked degree and upset entirely the programs that would be offered by the teachers.

Commented President Rose, "It is obvious that the Middle School site is not yet prepared to take on a high school educational process. And until that time no high school student should be subjected to its conditions."

IN SHORT

THE PENINSULA and Carmel Valley will be seeing movie and TV crews again in July and August, according to Walter Spear, who is the Locations Agent in Carmel for the major picture and TV studios.

Warner Bros.-Seven Arts will film "The Big Bounce" with Van Heflin, in Monterey, Carmel, Salinas and Watsonville.

Carmel Valley will be the setting for the exterior shots of the new CBS-TV western series, "Lancer." 20th Century Fox will be filming this with Andrew Duggan, Jim Stacey and Wayne Maunder. The pilot was filmed last December.

The Rhyming Philosopher

There once was a beagle
Who raced with an eagle
To pursue a fat rabbit and stop it.
While the bird soared so proud
With his head in a cloud,
With his feet on the ground, the dog got it.

It's so nice to have fun
And just play in the sun
And expect there'll be meat on the table.
While you're soaring around
It's the guy on the ground
Gets the prize 'cause he's willing and able.

It takes effort and will
To go climbing up hill
Since the summit won't come down to meet you;
If your goal is on top
This is no time to stop,
Or the fellow just started will beat you.

Though you may not acquire
All the things you desire,
You will win self-respect by just trying;
Like the beagle through habit
Got the scent of the rabbit,
While the high-flyer just kept on a-flying.

Community Center Happenings

The consolidation of the Community Center Board of Directors and the Carmel Valley Youth Organization, Inc. Adult Board will become a reality as soon as the Secretary of State puts his seal on the incorporation papers. At the meeting last Thursday the membership of both groups put their final seal of approval on this merger. Election of a new slate of officers and the appointment of a new fifteen member board was also taken care of at the meeting so we are now ready for action.

Memberships to the new corporation are open to anyone interested — 5.00 a year will buy you a part in this energetic, new enterprise.

The Cabrillo Dog Club held their annual pre-show dinner at the Center on Friday, May 24 and then went on to their big bash next day at Carmel Valley Inn.

Next week's special events include the OK's parents' meeting on Wednesday, June 5.

If you have any special vents coming up and would like to make use of the many facilities available at the Center, remember the number to call is 659-4258 and ask or Kathy Sherman.

Grass fires sweep Carmel Valley, arson thought possible in series

The possibility of arson is being considered in the rash of brush and grass fires which erupted over the past weekend, according to Fire Chief Chip Collins of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Dept.

"We have been on more mutual aid calls the past two days than in the past two years," he commented. Three new fires on Monday followed several on Sunday, which involved property on Jamesburg Road and Dorris Drive farther down the Valley.

200 ACRES

A fire which burned 200 acres on Carmel Valley Road near Piney Creek, a mile west of the Arroyo Seco junction, was reported at shortly after 2 p.m. on Monday. Equipment from the U.S. Forestry stations at Arroyo Seco, Big Sur, Pacific Valley and Chews Ridge were joined by State forestry trucks. Three bulldozers, air tankers and three hand crews, plus equipment from as far away as Santa Cruz, Santa Clara and San Benito Counties were pulled in, making a total of 166 men and 17 pieces of equipment.

On the way to the Piney Creek fire, dozer crews going out Carmel Valley Road discovered a fire on the Bob Wilson Ranch, three miles beyond the Village and another on the Cahoon Ranch four miles southeast of the Jamesburg turnoff.

WILSON RANCH

The Carmel Valley crew was called in on the Wilson fire and although it had been spotted early in its development, Mrs. Wilson said flames were already 20 feet high in the barley field.

A fire camp was set up and the Piney Creek blaze was contained at a little after 7 p.m. on Monday night and controlled at midnight. On Tuesday, 60 men remained on patrol with eight pieces of fire equipment and one dozer.

Of the 200 acres burned in that fire, there were 60 acres of brush, 60 acres of grass and 80 of woodland, according to Monterey County Ranger John P. Wade. No structures were involved.

The fires appeared to have followed a pattern, starting with one on River Road outside of Salinas, followed by another near Soledad and then to the Upper Valley Road with the blaze near the Arroyo Seco junction. Progressing down the Valley Road, the Cahoon fire came next, and then the Wilson's.

EXTREME FIRE DANGER

With the fire danger already so high due to the lack of rain this year (11.51 inches compared with 24.43 last year), Fire Chief Collins emphasized the need for caution. Discing and plowing under as a fire break is absolutely essential in fields of dry grass or grain. The CV Volunteers have the authority to order this done as a fire preventative, but the county can enforce it. They may call in crews to do the discing and then add the cost to the property owner's tax bill.

Apprehension over the summer fire danger already cloaks the county's fire departments. It could be an extremely dangerous year unless residents are very careful and observe burning regulations.

Notes from a Carmel cookbook collector

BY PHYLLIS JERVEY

All cookbooks are not expensive. For instance a recent one selling for only one dollar is every bit as instructive as the high priced books on cookery. This one is called "Creative Cooking" by Eleanor Lynch, Director of Home Economics, Reynolds Metals Company. Naturally, Mrs. Lynch stresses cooking with foil and we find it a fine idea to save dishwashing, to keep the juices and flavors sealed in and to simplify preparation. With fish cuisine this is a superior method for both outdoor and indoor grilling.

They cooked out-of-doors before foil was invented, but what a difference it makes! The capable author, whom your reviewer knows personally, explains in detail how to use aluminum which is so friendly to food. Eleanor's book starts with appetizers, this one called "To Begin With" so we'll do just that:

Bacon-Wrapped Snickles

Partially cook bacon so most of fat is removed. Then cut bacon strips in half or suitable length and wrap around any of the foods listed below. Secure with a toothpick. Arrange on foil-covered cookie sheet and refrigerate until guests arrive.

Place under the broiler until bacon is crisp and the food hot or cooked. Slide the foil with these tidbits onto a serving tray or keep them hot on an electric warming tray.

Here are the items to wrap and broil: Raw oysters, shrimp or scallops; chicken livers cut in half; pickled watermelon rind; pineapple cubes; stuffed olives; prunes stuffed with walnuts.

Now to the fish entree. The following is an easy way of cooking fish over the coals, one preferred by many avid fishermen. Former President Eisenhower grilled trout by this method. As with any food cooked over the coals in a foil package, the foil is sealed as tightly as possible. In turning, some juice is bound to seep out – but no one minds, since you are cooking out-of-doors. The fish will be moist and sweet as fresh-caught fish would be.

Whole Fish Grilled in Foil

Butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced thin
1 to 3 lb. fish, cleaned, head and tail removed
Salt and pepper
Fresh tarragon, parsley dill, thyme, rosemary
Butter

Tear off a suitable-size piece of heavy duty foil. Spread a little butter or margarine in the center and put some of the onion slices on it. Place the fish on the onion slices. Sprinkle fish cavity with salt and pepper. Arrange onion slices and herbs over fish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot generously with butter.

Bring foil up over fish, sealing edges with double fold. Seal both ends with double fold. Place on grate over medium hot coals.

Cook a 1-lb. fish about 15 min.; 2-lb. fish 25 min.; 3-lb. fish 35 min. Turn two or three times.

To serve, transfer foil with fish to a serving dish, a shingle will do if you are camping. Open foil, turn back and crimp edges. Fish may be lifted right off bones. Spoon juices in foil over each serving. Pass lemon wedges or jar of tartar sauce.

What a super way for Carmel River trout to be served forth this summer! And afterwards?

The chapter "The Wild Ones" tells how to cook game with foil to make it zestful, tender and an unusual treat for family and guests. Wild Duck, Country-Style, or Venison Braised in Wine and Herbs, makes us impatient for autumn... but first let's hope there'll be plenty of just-caught trout! Use your own creativity with "Creative Cooking" as your guide.

Camp Fire Girls

Today's Program for Today's Girl

DAY CAMP

Twenty-two Camp Fire and Blue Bird Girls from the Monterey Council have been accepted by the Salinas Council to attend a week of day camp. Mrs. Glen Low is currently attending counsel training in Salinas. This is her 3rd year counseling with girls at the camp.

CANDLE CEREMONY

Also rehearsing this week was the second year Blue Birds of the Sunshine and Happy Valley Groups for their first candle lighting ceremony. This is the big event for these 21 little girls have worked for two years – "flying up" from Blue Birds to Camp Fire Girls.

They have earned their first two beads by making bead holders for the beads they hope to earn as Camp Fire Girls and by writing invitations to their parents to the "Fly Up" Ceremony 4 p.m. June 4, at the Community Center.

MEMBERS WELCOME

Any Valley girls who were unable to sign up for membership into Camp Fire or Blue Birds at the recent Open House may do so by contacting any Valley leaders or phoning 659-2171. Also any adult interested in leadership or assisting in leading young girls may sign up by phoning 659-2171.

TIDEPOOL TRIP

Twelve girls from Anna Harlander's group were accompanied by Mrs. Erasimo Belleci to Point Lobos to study tidepools on Saturday morning before attending the Council Fire rehearsal at the Trail and Saddle Club. MPC music teacher retires

Miss Angie Machado, for many years prominent in the musical life of the Peninsula, has been granted emeritus status by Monterey Peninsula College. She has been instrumental, at MPC, in bringing some of the musical "greats" of the day to the college in the nine years in which she has been planning five or six free public concerts annually. As her last act of this sort this semester, before retirement, she will complete plans for the college's fall chamber music series.

Speaking of her years of teaching at MPC as "most rewarding and wonderful — I enjoy this age level of students so much," she says she is grateful to the administration for allowing her, for the past three years, to give her piano final examinations for advanced students in her Carmel studio, "where we can afterwards relax and have a party."

An advisor of the student International Relations Club, she has opened her home for residence to three successive students from Hong Kong.

Recently elected president of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society, Miss Machado is a board member of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association, was a board member of the Monterey County Symphony Society and from 1947 to 1962 was assistant choral conductor of the Carmel Bach Festival.

With her retirement, Miss Machado will complete 18 years of teaching in California schools, having also taught at Monterey High School, Carmel High School, the Carmel Adult School and at Santa Catalina School. During these years she has always also taken a few private piano and vocal students and performed two-piano concerts with such partners as Frederick Schaad, Clarence Iverson, Dorothy Heer and Gilbert Boyer.

A native Californian, she earned her B.A. degree at San Jose State College, has had class piano training at the Diller-Quaile School of Music (N.Y.) and artist classes with Egon Petri and Alexander Libermann at Mills College.

She is retiring from MPC, she says, because she wants time to "study and travel."

Church sponsors religious art show

The Religious Art Exhibit, sponsored each year by the Church of the Wayfarer, will be held this year from July 20 through July 28. It is traditionally held at this time, during the Bach Festival.

Painting competition is open to all artists and is held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Cash awards are given in each category.

This year's jurors will be Leon Amyx, instructor in painting and art history at Hartnell College, Salinas; John Halloran, curator of the Carmel Art Association; and Al Parker, illustrator and painter from Carmel Valley.

Something new is being tried this year with the media limited to oils, acrylics and water colors.

CHORISTERS

Forty choristers of the 31st annual Carmel Bach Festival, to be held this year July 19-July 28, have been rehearsing in Carmel High School Music Hall every Tuesday evening since early February.

A recent evening marked a red letter occasion for the singers when Mrs. Alastair MacKay gave her annual after-rehearsal supper. Mrs. MacKay has been executive secretary of the Bach Festival for the past nine years and her supper during each rehearsal session has become a tradition.

Honor guests at this year's party were Director-Conductor of the Carmel Bach Festival for the 13th consecutive season, Maestro Sandor Salgo, who with Mrs. Salgo, Festival choral assistant, traveled from Stanford University for the rehearsal and party; Kenneth Ahrens, music director at Santa Catalina School for Girls and now in his sixth season as rehearsal director for the Festival chorus; Arthur Dahl, president of the Festival board of directors and Mrs. Dahl.

Assisting Mrs. MacKay as hostess was Mrs. Walter Lehman, 1st vice president of the Festival board of directors for the past years.

Mrs. Anna Pundt of Carmel headed the list in seniority as a member of the chorus in the Festival of 1942. Vocalists remembering through a decade-plus were Mrs. Forrest Williams of Pacific Grove, Bruce Grimes and Les Rhinehart of Carmel.

Currently rehearsing for their 10th Festival are Mrs. Winston Elstob of Pacific Grove and Mrs. Spencer Hoyt of Monterey.

Cheers and applause were awarded by their fellow choristers to three long-distance travelers with a perfect record of attendance. They were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ballengee of King City and Mrs. Alyce Vestall of Watsonville.

All members of the Bach Festival Chorus are volunteers and auditions, held by Conductor Sandor Salgo, are open to all vocalists of the area.

Bates has show at Art Assoc.

Clarence Bates, popular teacher of painting, wood carving and sculpture for many years for the Carmel Adult School, is honored with a one-man show in the Carmel Art Association galleries this month.

Mr. Bates has won first awards in sculpture and painting at the Monterey County Fair. He is a native of Oregon and studied art at the Cornish School in Seattle and at the University of Oregon. He is now head of the art department at the Santa Catalina School in Monterey.

UP, up and away.....on a tour o

The world appears as an entirely different place when viewed from the topside. River channels, mountain ranges, rock deposits, timberlines and rich farmlands are visible in a relation that is impossible to imagine just from reading about them or studying maps.

Eighth grade students from Middle School recently had an opportunity to discover this when the Earth Science classes of Herb Reuter and Al Kolb cruised over Monterey County for a 45 minute field trip in an F-27 turbo-prop jet.

Arrangements for the flight were made through Joe Smith and Max Zappata, manager and assistant manager of Air West (formerly Pacific Airlines), who made the trip available to the students at a substantially reduced cost.

Both science teachers got the idea for the flight from work they had done separately during their leaves of absence last year.

Reuter had been at Indiana University working on his MA in Earth Science. Summer program had taken place in Montana and the climax of the study had been a flight over the Tobacco Root Mountains, over which they had been walking all summer as part of the course.

Kolb had been working on an intermediate degree as specialist in Science Education at Arizona State. There he had been taking such flights on his own.

When they two returned to Middle School, they coordinated their ideas as the climax to the eighth grade Earth Science course.

Even though the early flights were hampered with fog (the pre-

MIDDLE SCHOOL EIGHTH GRADE STUDENTS S

AFTER ARRIVING at the Monterey Airport, the youngsters discovered that the flights were running about 40 minutes behind schedule because of the inclement weather. However they lined the guard fence in orderly fashion, waving bon voyage to those who were about to take off. Waiting for the first group to return so that they might take off are (left to right) boys' counselor, Mr. Jay Criddle, Philip Green, Winston Boyer, Erich Rauber, Ken Mendoza, Robert Warcken, Steve Hohler, Steve Van Hagen, Diane Klech, Naomi Norwick, Babbette Barmettler, and Christine Paintin.

LEFT – Marianne Gillette (center), Dan Wilson and Bob Conlan weren't the least bit apprehensive about takeoff as they watched the airport streak by the windows.

RIGHT – Al Kolb gets off the plane during refueling between the second and third flights. Air West (formerly Pacific Airlines) made the flight plans at a nominal fee to the students. Captain Gene Malm piloted the F-27 turbo prop jet which carries 40 passengers. First officer and co-pilot was John Hall. The two worked out the routes with Kolb who had to change his original plans because of the weather.

THE PILOT was most cooperative, according to Kolb, about changing here and there in order to see some special formation a little better. 173 students signed up for the flight. Over three quarters had flown before, but on the first flight, the percentage was half.

ceding two weeks had seen sparkling sunshine), they were able to distinguish many of the geological phenomena. However, Kolb, who acted as narrator for the trip revised the original flight plan to fit the weather... and also had an opportunity to throw in a short course in meteorology to explain why the Peninsula had fogged in overnight.

During the year's study, the youngsters had studied what rocks can tell about the history of the earth, the influence of weather on life forms, weathering of rocks and the work of streams and rivers and resulting erosion. By plane they were able to observe ancient volcanic cones, the relation of redwood canyons in Big Sur to the surrounding mountains and fog currents, and the channels cut by the Salinas, Carmel and Big Sur rivers.

Because of the dense fog over the coastline, the classes were unable to cruise over the water to see the marine terraces and alluvial fans which were on the original agenda. But they did come in over Carmel Valley, and could see a relation between population density and topography.

By looking way down the winding Valley Road the students could just make out Middle School before they crossed into the Salinas Valley, circled over Laguna Seca Race Track and landed at Monterey Airport.

One students was heard to remark, "Gee, we've really made history today. This is the first time that anything like this has ever happened at the school. It took 'em a whole year to plan it... but it sure was worth it!"

BELOW — The students boarded the plane and behaved in outstanding fashion. Several teachers or parents went along as chaperones, but rowdiness was at a minimum. Air West (formerly Pacific) sent one of their freshly painted planes with the new insignia to take the kids on their scenic and informative flight.

RIGHT — Science teacher Al Kolb stayed up in the cockpit with the pilot, Gene Malm, and pointed out the points of interest to the students via the public address system. He had to make some quick changes in his course of study due to the route changes necessitated by the foggy weather.

BELOW RIGHT — Fred Hrusa and Dale Engstrom watch intently as the plane circled over Big Sur. Those who saw one side on the trip down, got a chance to observe from the other direction on the trip up the coast.

MPC trustees honor Valleyite

MARJORIE MARSHALL

Mrs. Marjorie B. Marshall of Carmel Valley was granted emeritus status by the MPC board of trustees last night.

Mrs. Marshall, who has been at the college in several capacities since it opened its doors as an evening school at Monterey High School in 1947, and Miss Angie Machado, who has taught music – primarily piano – at MPC since 1952, will retire at the close of the current semester.

Mrs. Marshall, who is currently director of student services, started her teaching life 28 years ago as a physical education instructor in Des Moines, Iowa, and taught several subjects at MPC "in the early days." Later she was, successively, a counselor, dean of women and dean of students.

A graduate "with honors" of Missouri State College, where she majored in health and physical education, she worked on a master's degree in physical education at Teachers College, Columbia University, for three summers, but finally took her M.A. in education, "with an emphasis on administration," at Stanford University. She holds both an administrative and a student personnel services credential.

With her husband, Murray, Mrs. Marshall came to California during World War II "for defense work," and from 1942 to 1946 she was a Red Cross field director at Ord Village. The couple's two daughters, Mrs. Arnold Diaz (Judy) and Mrs. Arthur Earle (Virginia) both attended Peninsula schools and MPC. Mrs. Diaz, mother of two children, is a study center coordinator in Garden Grove; Mrs. Earle and her husband are both finishing up master's degrees in biology at Humboldt State College and are joining the Peace Corps for two years in Bolivia.

Fond of country living, the Marshalls plan to keep their 2-1/3 acre ranch in Carmel Valley as headquarters during their joint retirement, meanwhile "trailering it" in the United States, Canada, and possibly Mexico, pursuing their hobbies of rock-hunting and fishing.

Trail & Saddle Club News

Marcia Dahle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ben Dahle, Carmel Valley, has been selected to represent the Trail and Saddle Club as hostess and candidate for the Salinas California Rodeo Sweetheart.

The first activity for the Junior members will be on June 2 at the Custom House in Monterey. They will present a color guard and drill team in the Fiesta de la Rodeo ceremonies.

The first Award Series Horse Show will be held on Memorial Day, May 30.

There will be three more: one on June 9, one on June 23 and one on July 7.

BABY SHOWER

Mrs. William Nelson was the guest of honor at a recent baby shower given the Lower Circle home of Mrs. John Woods. Mrs. Larry Wolf and Mrs. Herbert Reuter assisted with party plans. The hostesses utilized a yellow and green theme. The refreshment table was centered with a charming baby under an umbrella and flowers. Following the games and gifts, guests were served punch, dessert and coffee.

Honoring Joyce were Mrs. Lou Allaire, Mrs. Shirley Frazer, Mrs. Erasimo Belleci, Mrs. Alexander Collins, Mrs. Larry Cummings, Mrs. Don Weber, Mrs. William Parham, Mrs. Don Cummings, Mrs. William Ijams, Mrs. Gary Lobans and Mrs. George Palmer.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Heidi Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Nicholsen of Paso Hondo was surrounded by some of her favorite grownups last week when they were invited to the Nicholsen home for a dinner party honoring Heidi's second birthday. Assisted by her big sister, Fawn, Heidi opened her gifts including one from her maternal grandparents in Menlo Park.

Dinner guests were her great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nielsen and her Godfather, Doug Nicholsen, all of Salinas.

Don Laird of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department was in Fresno last week to attend five days of classes in the Fire Training Officers' Workshop. This was Don's third year in attendance at the instructors' course presented by the State Department of Education. Topic of the course most recently completed was "Conference Leading."

The English classes at Carmel Middle School were treated to the comedy production of "Do Girls Ask Boys for Dates" last week presented by the drama students in the class conducted by Mrs. Dolores Dresser and Mrs. Haydon Park.

Members of the cast included Bret Hittleman, Randy Smith, Manuel Mancebo, Vangie Nielsen and Robin Brun. Karen Olmsted was in charge of props, prompter was Debra Herrick. The introduction was made by Gai Phillips.

VALLEY SIGHTS

All of that good-natured kidding Ole Dick took last Saturday at Casey Field while a spectator at the Indians-Cub game where she reported a ring around the sun actually had a scientific explanation from the US Weather Bureau. Seems the phenomenon is caused by light refraction from ice crystals dropped by high clouds, much the same as sunlight striking raindrops causes the formation of rainbows... As charming as any of great-grandmother's daguerrotypes was the picture made by Julie Fields and Ashley Swanson presenting a bouqeut of long-stemmed roses to Madame Ziceva at Sunday's recital. The petite ballerinas in lavender tutus were visions of violets as they curtsied to Madame.

...One of the first to be picked up for questioning in the net dropped by authorities over the area following the Valley's holdup was none other than that distinguished master of music for the Carmel Unified School District, Gene Perrine, and his equally distinguished colleague and patron of the arts, Bob Skiles! Gene was concentrating so deeply on his language lesson in Japanese (preparing for his forthcoming trip to the Orient) that he had been flagged to the curb and was being searched for dynamite and money while still trying to recall the words for "I wasn't even in Chicago that year!" Seems that the make, model and color of his car (even a letter in the license) were identical to the description given of the car seen leaving the Mid-Valley bank.

...It was truly incredible how the capacity crowd attending the first night of the Middle School's Science Fair stopped with one collective foot in the air when Principal Orville Rogers sent a flash over the public address system that a turtle from one of the experiments had escaped!... Indecision at the Village Library...how to record the bird that swooped in an open door last week? Bird Brain?

...Surely there is a spot in Baseball's Hall of Fame for the following overheard after an unbeaten Farm Team had chalked up still another win. "Wow!" shouted a small boy in his euphoric role as victor. "If we keep on like this we'll even win the pennants!" "The PENNANTS?" shrieked a teammate. "I didn't even know we were playing THEM!".....

(Editor's note:)
...SEE, HERB CAEN...Three dot journalism is NOT dead!

BASEBALL PARTY

Since Grant Loban recently joined the Pirates' Ball Team, it seemed an appropriate theme for decorations when he celebrated his eighth birthday last week at the Community Center. Planned by the members of the CVYO, those in charge of Grant's party were Tomi France, Darlene Tavares, and Carl Checkoff.

Invited to share the games and refreshments were David Nelson, Rory Low, Dennis Tavares, Blair Cunningham, Mark Nottenkamper, Ted Stewart, Jerry Nelson and Matt Nottenkamper. Grant is the son of Capt. and Mrs. Gary Loban of Lower Circle.

CHURCH BARBECUE

Parish members of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church have set June 2 for their annual picnic at 1 p.m. at the Water Co. Filter Plant on East Carmel Valley Road. Co-chairmen of the affair which promises to be a real family day are Mrs. Bud Platter, Mrs. Don Morse, and Mrs. Sam Klemek.

The ladies have announced that their menu includes half a barbecued chicken, garlic bread, salad, beans, soft drinks and beer. Children may share a chicken dinner or purchase hot dogs for twenty-five cents. Dinner ticket donations are $1.25.

A telephone committee will be calling members to assign covered dishes of either salad or beans. Serving will begin at 2 o'clock.

Numerous prizes will be awarded for the games with play scheduled to begin at 3. There will be a wide range of activities to choose from including croquet, volleyball, relay races, and bingo.

ADVANCED FIRST AID

Cards were presented last week to the class which completed instruction in the American Red Cross Advanced First Aid Course given at the Carmel Valley Fire House by instructors Don Laird, Don Cummings, and Chip Collins.

Qualifying for cards were Mrs. William Frisbie, Mrs. George Palmer, Mrs. Lloyd Swanson, Mrs. Andreas Wolf, Mrs. Don Corona, Mr. John Woods, Mr. E.A. Kamerer, Mr. William Neidinger, Mr. Don Corona, Mr. Larry Cummings, Mr. George Palmer, and Mr. Bill Ijams.

Realtor joins Hogan in Hidden Hills partnership

Edward F. Hogan and Richard Bennett have announced formation of a partnership to operate Hidden Hills Realty Co.

Bennett will be president of the firm with full responsibility for promotion and sales of Hidden Hills properties and other real estate and the development and supervision of a full scale real estate operation. In addition, a vice president of Hidden Hills Land Co., Bennett will assist in the planning and development of the Hidden Hills Projects.

Ed Hogan is noted for his use of the cluster concepts of land development and conservation of open space to maintain the rural atmosphere which have contributed to the success of the original Hidden Hills development. With the acquisition of 1200 acres of the Work Ranch, Hogan has become one of the major land developers in Monterey County.

This property, combined with the original Hidden Hills developments, will provide 1200 living units on a total of about 2000 acres.

"This is a great opportunity to help direct the growth of this section of Monterey County," said Bennett.

He indicated that the firm also plans to provide a complete real estate service for Monterey County, with development assistance available to clients all over the world.

Dick Bennett was assistant to the president of Del Monte Properties Co. for years before opening his own real estate office in Seaside, while managing Olympia Plaza Shopping Center.

He stated that his biggest regret in moving is that he had to resign as president of the Seaside Chamber of Commerce. "Seaside is emerging as an outstanding city," he said. "It has been an exciting experience to have had at least a small part in its development and to participate with so many understanding people in helping to solve its problems. I only wish I could be around to see the fruition of all the efforts now being made."

MPC choruses present concert

A concert, final public offering of the semester for the Monterey Peninsula College College Chorus and The College Singers, will be staged Sunday, June 2, 8:30 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall.

The concert, to be conducted by Dr. Harvey Marshall, is free to the public.

Pet of the Week

MOVIE STAR? The future owner of this handsome fellow might be wise to send his photo around to Hollywood casting directors in case they are planning to revive the Rin Tin Tin series.

But perhaps he would rather keep him home to fill the role of good friend and guardian of the family. Either career would please this one-year-old shepherd.

You make shake hands with him at the SPCA Shelter, 2099 David Ave., New Monterey, any day except Thursday and holidays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Photo by Virginia and Louis Kay)

Donations sought for campaign

"The Poor People's Campaign hopes to involve the poor themselves in the struggle to realize the 'American Dream' for all of our citizens," stated Assemblyman Willie Brown (D. San Francisco) at a rally at King Junior High School in Seaside, Tuesday, May 21. The meeting was sponsored by the Monterey County Committee to Support the Poor People's Campaign, a newly-formed group which hopes to gain support from concerned citizens of all areas on the Peninsula.

As the representative for Carmel Valley, Mrs. Robert T. Jones asks that anyone wishing to contribute much-needed funds send checks to the Poor People's Campaign, 334 Auburn Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Anyone wishing to give canned goods or summer clothing in good condition may leave their contributions at St. Dunstan's Parish Hall, Robinson Canyon Rd., behind Farm Center, or at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel in the Village.

"It is hoped that the citizens of Carmel Valley will respond generously to this appeal, recognizing the responsibility we all have to our less fortunate fellow Americans," Mrs. Jones said.

For further information call 659-2889.

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy

of the Oleander Garden Shop

Sometimes at dusk you will see a flying creature darting here and there visiting flowers. Its habit of flying and its size give the impression of a hummingbird. But it is one of the sphinx moths, the "white-lined." Its wings have a spread of 2-1/2" to 3-3/4". The adult moth is pretty, but its larvae are destructive and eat a great deal of plant tissue. Something else you might observe these days is a white froth or "spittle" on some of your plants. This froth is a unique way to protect the nymphs of an insect from its enemies. The nymphs suck juice from the plants, but they are not so destructive as to cause much worry. Hosing them off with a stream of water will dislodge them.

PLANT FOR BASKETS

Are you looking for a new plant to enjoy in a hanging basket? Then try the "Spanish shawl": it has small, deep green, slightly hairy leaves, and will be covered with 3/4" to 1" rosy plum-colored blossoms during summer. The plant thrives in a partially sunny spot. It requires protection during winter, preferably indoors. The stems are vine-like, reddish in color, and the plant cascades, hence the name "Spanish shawl." It comes from Mexico, carrying the botanical name: Schizocentron ("split thorn") elegans.

SOIL CARE

Soils tend to pack on the surface, whether in a pot or in the garden. Such a crust thus formed prevents proper watering and aeration. In overcoming this, the tool to be used depends on the situation — a soup spoon or bottle opener or can puncturer are good for potted plants. A pointed hoe is practical around annual, perennial, and other shrubs. Use a roto-tiller for a big, new area. Stir the soil when it is not wet, especially clay soils, and also be careful not to hurt the roots.

Some plants have shallow root systems, and should be mulched only. Mulch keeps the soil in good condition and prevents the formation of a crust. We tend to think of mulch as leaf mold, bark, corn husks, etc., but gravel, crushed rock and rock of larger sizes can be used as mulch, also. These inorganic materials protect the soil and conserve water. There is a lightweight lava rock which looks like bark and can be used to good advantage.

MONKEY-FLOWER

Proverbs are condensed expressions of a thought, and it is interesting how the same thoughts are expressed in different parts of the world. An adage in English is: "A prophet is without honor in his own land." In Arabic the same thought is expressed: "The local dancer does not entertain." Probably this second version is more befitting our subject, which is the native California monkey-flower.

This plant is now adorning our hills with its beautiful orange flowers, and so it was during the time of David Douglas, the famous English plant collector who sent seeds of this plant to England, where it has been grown. The flowers look like snapdragons, but their "lips" are not closed; they are grinning, hence the genus name: "Mimulus (little mimic). It is a freely-branching perennial up to four feet high, with 2" sticky leaves, whose margins are toothed. The flowers are 1 1/2-2" long. It thrives better in the sun and accepts extra watering graciously.

IRONWOOD TREE

Another plant which is native and worthy of being planted in your garden is the Ironwood tree. It was discovered on the Channel Islands by William S. Lyon, the first state forester of California, in 1884, so it was named in his honor: "Lyonothamnus asplenifolius," literally "Lyon's shrub with ferny leaves."

The trunk is covered with attractive reddish, shredded bark and the branches are clearly red. It is an evergreen tree which grows in the sun, or a partially shaded spot. In June and July, the tree has white

Don't pick up baby animals

"Don't pick up baby wild animals unless they are injured or ill," Gwendolyn May of Carmel Valley, executive director of Monterey County SPCA advised this week.

In most cases a seemingly abandoned (because it is found alone) baby animal is really safe, but its mother may be reluctant to come into view with humans nearby.

Often a spotted fawn will be found lying quietly in the forest... while its mother is off looking for food. "Please don't disturb it," Mrs. May says.

However, if a fawn is found wandering around and crying, the chances are good that some harm has come to the mother. In this case, one is asked to carry the creature home carefully and phone the SPCA. They will come quickly and care for it.

It is illegal to possess a fawn, so be sure to get in touch with the SPCA immediately by calling 375-3333. For help with ill, injured or abandoned wild or domestic animals, you may call day or night.

CLUB CALENDAR

● CV Garden Club

Mrs. Charlotte Kelley has been selected by members of the Carmel Valley Garden Association to chairman their annual Flower and Garden Show. Mrs. Kelley invited members of her committee to her home last week to select a date and to lay the ground work for their ninth annual show.

Spring blossoms will take a back seat this year to the Valley's fabulous fall array when the show opens on Sept. 7.

Members of the show committee include Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott, Mr. Salih Mehdy, Mr. Lynn Sims, Mrs. L.C. Roller, and Mrs. Mildred Hattan. They invite everyone "to plant, prune and persuade" with September and a blue ribbon in mind!

● Community Chapel Guild

Mrs. Gil Sweet and Mrs. J.M. Longfellow were cohostesses for the May benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored by the Guild of the CV Community Chapel. Twenty-eight ladies enjoyed the afternoon at Mrs. Sweet's home on El Nido and Country Club Drive.

The attractive arrangements of white paper daisies in yellow containers decorating the tables were awarded as table prizes to Mmes. Peggy Hunt, Muriel Dawson, Margaret Moore, Shirley Mills, Harriet Hufford and Otts Anker.

The high in bridge was awarded to Mrs. Ralph Mills, second high to Mrs. Muriel Dawson and third place to Mrs. Ruth Pryer. Mrs. Peter Glod was winner of the canasta award.

Recipe for the delectable fruit cocktail dessert prepared by Mrs. Nicole Longfellow has been submitted for the new Chapel Guild Cook Book. The tentative publication date which is now set for November will be in time for the Bazaar and the holidays.

Ladies who enjoy cards are cordially invited to make up a table and a car pool to attend the June 18 party at the Monarch Pines Park in Pacific Grove. Mrs. Irving Ollason and Mrs. Charles Hunt have invited the group to utilize their mobile homes park clubhouse facilities. Reservations will be accepted until June 15 by Mrs. Ollason at 372-3568.

● St. Dunstan's

St. Dunstan's benefit bridge and canasta party was held last week at the Garzas Road home of Mrs. David Morris. Assisted by Mrs. George Clifford and Mrs. Philip Walker, the hostesses decorated the tables with miniature baskets of violets. Pinks, yellows, blues, lavenders, whites and oranges complemented the tablecloths and napkins of corresponding colors. The tiny bouquets were awarded as table prizes.

Mrs. Fred Reynolds was winner of the high in bridge. A tie among Mrs. Howard Vail and Mrs. Clayton Wright, and Mrs. Jack Borsting for second place was won in a drawing by Mrs. Wright. The canasta prize went to Mrs. Jenny Clark. Canasta table prizes were taken home by Mrs. Peter Glod and Mrs. Paul Anthony.

The next party is planned for June 26 at the home of Mrs. Nelson Leoni on Scarlett Road. You are invited to phone Mrs. Philip Walker, 659-2280 for reservations.

Community Church to have concert Memorial Day

Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula will be the setting for what promises to be an outstanding concert by the a capella choir and brass ensemble of the Katella High School of Anaheim, on Thursday, Memorial Day, May 30, at 7:30.

Directed by Roger D. Axworthy, the high school group is currently on a tour in the state and will present a program of both sacred and secular music from a variety of musical periods.

The concert will be free of charge and the public is invited to attend and encourage these young people who are making a constructive contribution to their environment.

● Lions Club

Bob Hebert of the Carmel Valley Lions has announced that the club's Annual Barbecue will be held Father's Day, Sunday, June 15 at the California American Water Co. Filter Plant.

Open to the public, the affair is noted for fun and games, as well as excellent steaks. Hebert, as chairman, promised that tickets will be on sale soon.

AT A RECENT Eugene McCarthy benefit, Valleyites Betty Antoncich (left) and Frank Sclawy (center) visit with John Barbieri and Diane Dumanoski who had just come from the Nebraska primary. John has been with the Peace Corps in India and Diane is an English major in graduate school at Yale. Both have followed the primaries from the East Coast.

1/4" flowers in clusters of 4"-8". It grows to 30' in height, and was able to stand the frosts of last December – we have a good-sized tree growing in our native garden. It is such a graceful tree that the county of Santa Barbara has adopted it as the county tree.

CV GARDEN ASSOCIATION

The Carmel Valley Garden Association has recently planted pistachio trees along one side of the Tularcitos School grounds. This is part of their continuing program of beautifying the village area. Anyone interested in gardening is invited to their meetings, which are held at 8 p.m. on the second Thursday of each month in the multi-purpose room of the school.

Red Sox retain Little League first place

The league-leading Red Sox continued to remain in first place by defeating the Tigers 7 to 3 last Tuesday, May 21.

Thursday, May 23, the Giants charged their way through the Volunteers, 19 to 7, to become a contender for first place.

At Saturday's double header, the Volunteers came back with 5 runs in the extra 7th inning to break a 2-2 tie and defeat the Tigers in a closely matched game, 7 to 5. This is the first game to go extra innings this season.

In the nightcap, the Red Sox out-slugged the contending Giants to win 9-1 and clinched a firm hold on their first place standing.

At Saturday morning's farm team game at Casey Field, the Cubs continued their winning streak over the Pirates, 22 to 5.

The Little League 4th of July Bar-b-que tickets are now available from all Little League players.

CHS baseball

Winning its last Mission Trail Athletic League ball game Friday against San Lorenzo Valley, Carmel High placed 5th, about the middle, of the league this season.

Carmel will travel to compete in the Gonzales Invitational Tournament this Friday and Saturday. Pitcher Lee Mark is scheduled to start on the mound for the Padres.

Mark pitched the Padres to their Friday win, striking out six, walking four and giving up only four hits against San Lorenzo Valley.

CHS track

Competing against schools from South San Francisco through Monterey County, Carmel High's half dozen track men turned in creditable performances in the Central Coast Section track and field championships Saturday at Gonzales.

Placing for Carmel was Dan Dills who was 5th in the 880 with 1:57.1.

Cypress swimmers capture championship crown at San Jose

The prediction made at the Festival of the Grape, May 19, by Del Neel, manager of Cypress Swim Club, proved true last weekend as the Cypress "A" team swept to victory in the 1968 Junior Pacific AAU Synchronized Swimming Championships at the San Jose Swim and Racquet Club.

The routine, "Flight of the Swans," which climaxed the Festival of the Grape, took first place in the championship to defeat the favored San Francisco Merionettes, by 4.4 point to end the domination which the Merionettes have held over the sport of synchronized swimming since 1961.

Gold medal winners and Junior PAAU champions are: Bonnie Banker, Lindy Doud, Kathy Neill, Jan and Sharon Roehl, Susie Selfridge and Judy Snyder.

The Cypress "B" team, entered in routine competition for the first time, won the eighth place spot to help win the overall team victory. The "B" team is composed of Susan Blandin, Laurie Doud, Susan Hooper, Wynn Norwood, Kim Pilkenton, and Lynnda Zarp.

The local club also placed three solos, a duet and three stunts competition among the top ten at the meet. Susie Selfridge took fifth in solos, Sharon Roehl 7th, Jan Roehl 10th, and Lindy Doud 14th. The duet of Bonnie Banker and Judy Snyder placed sixth.

The Merionettes also lost their long-time reign over solos and duets. The duet championship was won by Gail Johnson and Kristy Burcham of the Santa Clara Aquamaids, and the solo crown was won by Kathy Bryant of San Francisco, an ex-Merionette, now swimming unattached.

The team win should give the local Cypress Swim Club a big boost toward its goal of winning the Junior National AAU championship at Washington, D.C. this summer.

This weekend the Cypress swimmers will enter the first phase of the 1968 PAAU Junior Olympics at the Castro Valley Swim Center in Castro Valley. The Olympics will continue for three weekends in a row.

AN UNUSUAL OX YOKE FOR SALE! (Adv.)

A real antique and museum piece of unusual character and design. Used in Massachusetts circa 1815. Ingeniously designed and engineered to compensate for use with fat and thin oxen of different size and weight, and of unequal pulling ability. (It's not like the one you customarily see.) Should grace the gate of a local ranch or over a fireplace (big one) as a decoration and conversation piece. Have spent hundreds of dollars lugging it around the country and on storage and shipping. Perhaps you have a use for it, or know someone that does, who would like to take over my "problem" and utilize it! Only $495.00. For more details 'phone 624-6419, or eves. 624-8973 — or better still see it in the window at #6 Lincoln Lane on Lincoln between 5th and 6th.
